

Wound Care and associated Supplies

A wound is a break in the skin (the outer layer of skin is called the epidermis). Wounds are usually caused by cuts or scrapes. Different kinds of wounds may be treated differently from one another, depending upon how they happened and how serious they are. Healing is a response to the injury that sets into motion a sequence of events. With the exception of bone, all tissues heal with some scarring. The object of proper care is to minimize the possibility of infection and scarring. Hobbs Pharmacy offers all the supplies and consulting that you need to help a wound heal. You should discuss any and all treatment options with your doctor prior to using any wound care supplies. Hobbs stocks everything in wound care from band-aids to hospital grade wound dressings.
